Publishable Summary

This document aims at providing a plan for an effective and inclusive production of communications materials. It includes a self-explicative process description of producing and reviewing communications materials within DRIVE Project in a timely manner.

This process will be revisited and revised according to need as the body of the communications governance model advances.

By communications materials we refer to web pages, press releases, leaflets etc. material that represent views of the whole DRIVE consortium. An author or a commentator is always a single person, responsible for the task, but who may consult other experts in consortium when writing or commenting a document.
